balance, we will work to get them sorted in the first week of August.

“There are those who have probably cancelled their appointments or did not turn up for their appointments,” Khairy, who is also the National Covid-19 Immunisation Programme (NIP) coordinating minister, told the media.

He said that the rest who have yet to get their jabs will receive theirs soon, as several walk-in vaccination centres will be in place soon.

Khairy said that the CITF would be focusing its efforts on vaccinating those who have “dropped out”, as well those who did not register to get inoculated, as well as those who may have cancelled their appointments.

He added that the “mop op” operation in Klang Valley will be executed in two ways; walk-in to select PPVs in the Klang Valley and secondly via the mobile outreach programme for those in rural areas.

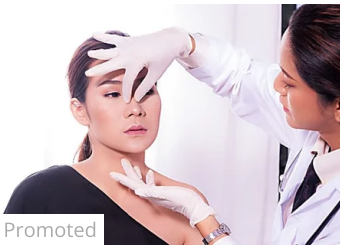

“I want to stress that the walk-in initiative in the Klang Valley is only for those who reside in the Klang Valley, based on the target and need to protect the residents here, which is the epicentre of the Covid-19 spread at the moment,” Khairy said, adding that this initiative however is to administer first doses, and does not include individuals who want to get their second jabs.

“Second doses will be given according to the appropriate time gap from the time their first doses were received,” he said.

Khairy said that those who were dropped out from the system or have cancelled their appointments can also walk-in to the nine PPVs listed, until August 22.

He added that the elderly can still walk into any PPV in the Klang Valley, not limited to the nine listed, to get their first jab.
